

A hand is reaching towards a yellow ceramic cup. Several other cups in various colors (yellow, teal, pink, white) are scattered on a bed of brown coffee grounds. The cups have a textured, cracked-glass appearance. One cup is lying on its side, showing the bottom which has a signature and the word 'LOVERAMICS'.

new crackle glaze

The glaze is special with a crackle surface, with 3 translucent, trendy colours that fits well with the rustic, modern vintage interior trend. They are a prized, pottery glaze that can only be achieved in small studio.

new crackle glaze

The range has a vast upgrade with potters colours in 3 new "Crackle Glaze". The glaze is deliberately formulised to be crackle as an art glaze.

The cups were originally designed and hand thrown by Ben Sutton, a London based potter who is also a close friends with Dale. Dale Harris used them participating coffee competitions and has fallen in love with the aesthetics since. We both love the collection, and decide to manufacture them to as a crossover collection to reach a wider-audience.
